Trouble Mounts In Jordan

Flames Sear Areas From Maine To Virginia

Wind-Swept Fires Sear Timberlands

Rain Is Needed Along Wide Span Of East Seaboard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another weekend of fire and destruction took at least two lives, left hundreds homeless and caused millions of dollars worth of damage in the bone-dry brush and timber areas along the eastern seaboard Sunday.

For the second time in three weekends, thousands of firemen fought almost to exhaustion from Maine to Virginia to control wind-fed flames that seared hundreds of thousands of parched acreage.

Rain Is Needed

There was no rain for the stricken areas, except for scattered showers in part of Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Upper New York State.

The worst damage was caused Saturday in areas near Baltimore, Md., Biddeford, Maine, on Staten Island, N.Y., King George County in Virginia, and along the shore areas of New Jersey, where two persons died.

Though fires still raged in some of these areas Sunday, for other sections it was time for assessment of losses.

Over 1,000 Alarms

Saturday taxed the New York City Fire Department as it had never been taxed before. Fire Commissioner Edward Thompson said the department responded to 1,000 alarms, the greatest number for any 24 hours in the city's history, and many of them came from Staten Island.

Final figures showed 100 buildings destroyed on Staten Island, 24 firemen injured and 75 families left homeless by fires not declared out officially until 7 a.m. Sunday.

New Jersey Is Hit

New Jersey still was smoking from countless blazes which so far have burned more than 100 buildings and 120,000 acres.

Smoldering ashes and charred patches dotted virtually all states along the northeastern seaboard.

The gusts which whipped Saturday's fires diminished, but switched direction, forcing beleaguered firemen to change their fire-fighting patterns and hurriedly reshuffle equipment.

Both deaths were reported Sunday. A Burlington, N.J., assistant fire chief died when his fire truck ran into the rear of another piece of equipment on a smoke-clogged road.

The charred remains of a 68-year-old man were found in the yard of his home in Newtonville, southern New Jersey.

Congress Goes Back To Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will return to work Monday after an Easter recess with leaders hopeful of a quickening legislative pace.

In neither the Senate nor the House, however, is any major legislation ticketed for immediate action.

The Senate is to take up Monday a bill to authorize federal grants for establishment of water resources research centers. Next on its schedule is a measure to guarantee consumers in the Pacific Northwest first call on power generated at federal hydroelectric plants in the area.

In the House, no general bills are docketed for consideration Monday, but measures to provide federal aid for medical and dental schools and to extend the feed grain control program are to be acted on later in the week.

Donovan Gains Freedom For 27 Americans

War Victims In Laos

Castro Agrees To Release All U.S. Prisoners

1,000 Refugees Also Expected To Sail From Cuba

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — All U.S. prisoners will be released from Fidel Castro's jails today, attorney James B. Donovan announced Sunday.

The New York lawyer, who has been 100 per cent successful in his prisoner release negotiations, also reported clearance has been obtained for departure of about 1,000 Cuban refugees aboard the U.S. vessel American Surveyor.

Donovan's announcement was made from Havana through former U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele who released the information at a breakfast meeting of Roman Catholic policemen in New York.

Dr. Scheele said about 20 U.S. citizens will arrive in Miami with Donovan on Monday. Many have been captives for more than three years. The latest official tabulation of American prisoners in Cuba set the number at 27, most of them charged with counter-revolutionary activity.

Donovan's statement said the release does not require any further ransom payments to the Castro government. His announcement came as the American Surveyor docked at Havana with 8,000 tons of baby food, drugs and medical supplies, the largest cargo yet of invasion prisoner ransom goods.

68 Per Cent Delivered

Cuba now has received about 68 per cent of the $53 million worth of goods promised for release of the Bay of Pigs invasion captives. This release also was negotiated by Donovan. In addition, he got two American women prisoners out of Cuba last month.

The Castro government had charged the United States had closed its doors against refugees. It based its accusation on the fact that foreign flag vessels which did not return to the United States were chartered for the two ransom shipments immediately preceding the delivery by the American Surveyor.

Havana radio made no reference to this charge Sunday in reporting arrival of the American Surveyor.

Donovan and the Americans presumably will return by air. It will be several days before the American Surveyor can be unloaded and come back to the United States.

Confers With Castro

Donovan arrived in Havana only Saturday, aboard an airliner chartered by the Red Cross to bring ransom goods. Informed sources said he went into immediate conference with Castro.

Donovan also held out hope for other political prisoners in Cuba. He said the Cuban government is "reviewing the cases of political prisoners and I have submitted petitions on behalf of many.

"Persons having information why clemency should be exercised in favor of a particular prisoner should forward such information directly to the minister of the interior in Havana for review."

He said nothing about the nationality of such prisoners. Some Britons have been released recently from Cuban jails and there have been rumors that other non-Cubans are being held captive.

Donovan reported the ransom supplies sent by the United States have been a godsend for Cuba.

"The antibiotics delivered here already have resulted in the dramatic saving of the lives of many Cuban children," he said.

Cease Fire Promised By Reds In Laos

Premier Extracts Another Truce; Situation Shaky

By ANTOINE YARED

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma extracted another promise of a cease-fire Sunday from pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces threatening to dominate all northern Laos. A similar truce arrangement last week lasted only hours.

"All hopes are not lost to restore peace," Souvanna reported after a flying trip to Pathet Lao headquarters. The trip introduced the diplomatic presence of Britain and the Soviet Union into bargaining to preserve the delicately balanced Laotian coalition government.

Temporary Truce

Souvanna said the Pathet Lao forces under Prince Souphanouvong, his half-brother and a deputy premier in the shaky coalition government, agreed to halt their drive on the neutralist Plaine des Jarres until Souvanna returns to the area to resume peace efforts in two or three days.

Gen. Kong Le, commander of the outnumbered neutralist forces, also was ordered to observe a temporary cease-fire, Souvanna said.

"Fighting must cease in order to give me time to find a satisfactory solution acceptable to the two sides," Souvanna said. But he appeared to be skeptical that his latest stopgap arrangement would work any better than his last one.

Souvanna made a similar truce-making mission to the Plaine des Jarres area, 110 miles north of Vientiane, last Sunday. But within hours of his departure fighting broke out again. During the past week, the Pathet Lao drove Kong Le's forces out of several strongholds and flung them back to the edge of the Plaine.

Fear Civil War

The possibility of Kong Le's forces being overwhelmed by the Pathet Lao, their onetime ally, raised fears that rightists under Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, also a deputy premier, would move to block the Pathet Lao advance and plunge Laos into another all-out civil war.

Souvanna gave no indication of what he planned to do about bringing about a permanent cease-fire in the area, but his efforts seemed to be dependent on how much pressure the big powers could bring to bear on the Pathet Lao.

Try To Salvage Coalition

At U.S. urging, Britain and the Soviet Union, cochairman of the 1962 Geneva conference that nominally pledged to guarantee Laos' independence and neutrality, are trying to salvage the coalition government.

Red China also reaffirmed Sunday its determination to observe the Geneva accord. But Peking called the Laotian situation "increasingly disquieting" and accused the United States of interference and aggression in Laos through "a series of political murders and armed conflicts."

Souvanna was accompanied to the Pathet Lao headquarters at Khang Khay by Soviet Ambassador Sergei Affanassev, British Ambassador Donald Hopson and three members of the International Control Commission, representing India, Canada and Poland.

Haiti Sees Spectre Of Revolt Plot

May 15 Is Set As Target Date For Revolution

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Leaflets threatening a revolt against President Francois Duvalier littered streets and yards of Port au Prince on Sunday. Listing May 15 as the target date, they were signed "United Revolutionary Forces."

Duvalier's constitutional six-year term as chief executive of this French-speaking Negro republic expires May 15, but he intends to remain in power until 1967. Duvalier, 55, is a physician turned politician who has survived a dozen plots in the past.

The new threat to his regime came 48 hours after authorities announced the killing of a high army officer arrested on a charge of conspiring against Duvalier. The officer, Col. Charles Turnier, was reported shot dead while attempting to escape from the army barracks behind the presidential palace.

The leaflets showed up at the outset of a government-sponsored "month of national gratefulness to Duvalier," which was launched with a 21-gun salute.

Apparently dropped by plane in the night, they told residents to clear out before May 15 and that the revolutionary forces intended to clean the city of Duvalier and his henchmen.

Troops of "the uncontaminated part of the army" were instructed to place themselves unconditionally at the service of the revolution "to avoid being crushed in the anti-Duvalier dry-cleaning operation."

Resistance organizations were asked to prevent looting.

Thresher Probe May Continue Several Weeks

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., (UPI) — The naval board of inquiry's investigation of the nuclear submarine Thresher sinking might last for another three or four weeks, a spokesman said Sunday.

Cmdr. James H. Gormsen, Navy public information official, attributed the probable length of the inquiry partially to the fact that the board must study records, plans and blueprints in addition to hearing testimony from witnesses.

The board will continue its hearings Monday at 10:30 a.m. EST, probably interviewing supervisors and workmen from the naval shipyard here where the submarine, which sank April 10 with the loss of 129 men, underwent a lengthy overhaul prior to its final voyage.

Meanwhile, the Atlantis 11, a research vessel, left the Woods Hole, Mass. Oceanographic Institution Sunday night to aid in the search for the Thresher. Atlantis II returned to Woods Hole last week from the search scene to take on sensitive equipment for use in the hunts. The vessel carries two underwater television cameras.

The Destroyers USS Warrington and The Sullivans are searching the area where the Thresher went down in hopes of finding more debris. Navy officials hope that the condition of Thresher debris may give a clue as to what caused the submarine to take its death dive.

King Hussein Appoints New Government

Election Called To Cope With UAR Demonstrations

By SPIRO ELISSA

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein named a new government, dissolved Parliament and called for a general election in efforts Sunday to cope with bullet-punctuated demonstrations for Arab unity, Cairo style.

Heavy gunfire sounded briefly in Amman shortly before noon.

Troops shooting into the air were reported to have dispersed demonstrators trying to press in the streets their demand that this desert kingdom join President Nasser's emerging federation of the United Arab Republic Syria and Iraq.

Appoints His Uncle

Hussein appointed royal court minister Sherif Hussein Ibn Nasser, his uncle, caretaker Premier to run governmental affairs pending a parliamentary election to be held within four months.

The new premier is a tough-minded politician of the old school. He succeeds Samir Rifai, exponent of a pro-Arab Union policy, who resigned Saturday night after 31 members of the 60-member House of Deputies voted no confidence in his 24-day-old administration.

Election Necessary

The young ruler—Jordan's monarch for 10 of his 27 years—said the new election is necessary because the House of Deputies, in voting down Rifai's pro-Arab Union policy, showed it did not represent the true will of the people. The House, elected last Nov. 24, was sent home. The Senate, made up of 30 members nominated by the king, was not affected by the dissolution order.

Hussein had backed gestures of friendship by Rifai toward unity talks in Cairo among Iraq, Syria and the United Arab Republic. All three of those neighbors, however, have snubbed Jordan at times and President Nasser received the overtures coldly. Nasser has made it clear that his conception of Arab unity is for republics, not monarchies.

Hussein Applauded

Despite the crisis gripping Amman, Hussein left the royal palace for a drive about the capital in an open car. He was hailed with salutes and applause by the few Jordanians who saw him.

Three persons were reported killed and 29 wounded in incidents Saturday in the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem, the old walled city still crowded with Easter tourists. In Ramallah, five wounded demonstrators were reported.

Damascus newspapers declared 44 Jordanians were killed and 92 wounded by the gunfire of troops and police in four days of demonstrations in 11 Jordanian towns, including 28 killed in Jerusalem. The Ba'Ath Arab Renaissance party and the Arab Nationalist movement—pillars in the revolutionary regimes set up earlier this year in Syria and Iraq—openly claimed credit for the unity campaign in Jordan. Syrian crowds called in Damascus for Jordan to overthrow Hussein and join the federation.

Old Believers Get Permission To Live In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Between 200 and 250 members of the Old Believers sect of the Russian Orthodox church have been granted permission to come to this country from Turkey, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy announced Sunday.

The group, including 78 children under seven years of age, is made up of descendants of about 5,000 Old Believers who left Russia more than 300 years ago and settled on the shores of Lake Manyas in Turkey.

Since 1959 they have been under pressure from the Soviet Union to return to Russia and about 1,000 have done so, Kennedy said. But those remaining in Turkey did not want to go to the Soviet Union and appealed for permission to enter the United States.

Kennedy said the permission was granted because "Soviet pressures . . . have intensified and the membership of this small group is declining. Immediate action is required to prevent its complete demoralization."

Firemen Smother Big Gas Well Fire

GRAY, Okla. (UPI) — Weary fire-fighters smothered a blistering gas well fire with foam Sunday, more than 24 hours after it broke out, melted its derrick to the ground and threw a curtain of fire around three workmen, killing one of them.

Two other men sustained serious injuries from the fire. Damage was estimated at more than $250,000.

President Of Israel Is Critical

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — An official medical bulletin said President Izhak Ben-Vzi took an "alarming" turn for the worse Sunday night.

The bulletin, issued at his home in central Jerusalem where he is under constant medical observation, said the "general weakened condition of the president increased to an alarming extent although the results of complications which came three days ago had passed and he is retaining consciousness."

Premier David Ben Gurion was at his bedside Sunday night surrounded by the doctors and aides who have been present since early this week.

Prison Is Quiet Following Riot

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (UPI)—An uneasy quiet settled over the federal penitentiary Sunday following a tense drama in which three convicts held a prison guard hostage for 14 hours, with a knife at his throat.

Some 350 other prisoners rioted Saturday in apparent sympathy with the three convicts.

An Army detachment from Chilliwack, B.C., was inside the grey-walled prison located on the banks of the Fraser River about 20 miles from Vancouver, maintaining a vigil to prevent a recurrence of Saturday's violence.

Royal Tour Ends

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Mother Elizabeth flew home Sunday from a tour of the Loire Chateau country of France.

Kennedy Sends Harriman To Discuss Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Secretary of State Averell Harriman left Sunday for consultations in Paris and London—and possibly Moscow—about the deteriorating situation in Laos.

His trip, ordered by President Kennedy Saturday, was one of the U.S. diplomatic moves being made to prevent the neutralist Laotian government from collapsing under new Communist pressure.

Although describing the situation as serious, Harriman told reporters that the neutralists "seem to be holding out" in their efforts to stave off Communist attempts to take over strategic sections of the Southeast Asian kingdom.

Harriman is now undersecretary of state for political affairs. But in his previous job as head of the State Department's Far Eastern Affairs Section, he played an instrumental role in bringing about the Geneva agreement for a Laotian ceasefire last year.

Kennedy has said the new Communist attacks in Laos have imperiled that ceasefire agreement, in which 14 nations guaranteed Laotian neutrality under a coalition government of pro-Western, pro-Communist, and neutralist elements.

Danger Of Tainted Blood In Transfusions Seen In Dramatic New York Story

By CHARLES L. WEST

NEW YORK (AP) — A medical detective story, begun in a hospital operating room, has reached into the hazy demiworld of the Bowery in a search for the donor of diseased blood.

There, where "blood" is wine, human blood sells for $5 a pint and each man carries within himself the price of food and drink—until that reservoir too, like his worldly resources, is depleted.

Men are known to each other by first names or nicknames and few pry into identification.

Time is only the present. The past, the future don't exist.

There, among the derelicts, detectives and health department officials seek a man, unknown, who may himself be marked early death from the disease he passed on to a patient—malignant malaria.

Blood, identity and time bear on the mystery.

On March 7, at New York Hospital, a 39-year-old man underwent open heart surgery. Twenty-three pints of other persons's blood was pumped into his arteries.

An anticipated postoperative fever occurred. Then on March 26, severe fever alarmed doctors. Tests showed that what Dr. Harold T. Fuerst of the health department has called "the inescapable hazard" of tranfusion had occurred. He had been infected by tainted blood.

Health officials quickly found and tested the 17 hospital staff members who had donated blood and one from outside. The search narrowed to five—one who contributed at the hospital and four through a commercial blood bank.

Three were found a week ago, tested and cleared.

Then there were two: a hotel porter and Wesley Bland, who had given his address as the Bowery's Palace Hotel. Bland turned up at a city welfare shelter on Thursday, the same day the porter was located, and authorities felt they had successfully ended their quest.

But suddenly, the mystery was deeper than before.

As health department officials awaited the results of blood tests—which showed neither man infected—Bland couldn't remember about March 7.

"I might have sold blood then, but I might not," he said. And he disclosed that he had "loaned" his Social Security card to one or more Bowery acquaintances. One he knew only as "George."

The city requires that Social Security numbers be given by donors in an effort to tighten control.

"So you borrow a card from somebody and sell blood," said one Bowery drifter. "Next day you take a walk to another place and sell again. They don't check.

Almost miraculously, among that sea of nameless men who clutter sidewalks and wander into streets with a dirty cloth to make a desultory pass at a motorist's windshield in hope of a tip, police found George.

But he couldn't remember whether he had given blood just before March 7 and he, too, was cleared by a blood test.

Dr. Fuerst, head of the health department's Bureau of Preventive Medicine, said authorities

(Duvalier became president in 1957 in an election his foes denounced as fraudulent. The constituion at that time limited him to one six-year term. He approved a new constitution deleting the limitation and arranged an extension by plebiscite.

(His name appeared on the ballots for all candidates for the 58 seats in the National Assembly on April 30, 1961. Duvalier declared himself re-elected for six years with the casting of those ballots. Though two years of his first term remained to be served, he was sworn in for the second term May 22, 1961.)

The "month of national gratefulness to Duvalier" was designed to lead up to the second anniversary of his second term.

Steel-helmeted troops, blue denim-uniformed men and women of Duvalier's civilian militia and armored cars equipped with .50-caliber machine guns were on guard at the opening ceremony.

The president, who has identified his regime with Haiti's small middle class, is now wooing the peasants who make up 90 per cent of the country's 4.8 million people and bear the bulk of the tax burden.

Haiti shares the island of Hispaniola with the Dominican Republic, recently freed from the Trujillo dictatorship. Fifty miles to the west, across the Windward Passage, is Cuba.

Integrationists Send Appeal To Gov. Tawes

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Two integrationist groups sent Gov. Tawes telegrams Sunday protesting segregation in separate parts of Maryland.

Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the Maryland Conference of branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), asked the Governor to call an emergency conference of Dorchester County leaders "on the intolerable racial discrimination practiced in Cambridge and throughout the county against colored citizens..."

Eleven pickets were arrested in Cambridge Saturday in the fourth consecutive weekend of demonstrations in the town sponsored by the Civic Interest Group (CIG). They were charged with refusing to obey an officer and disorderly conduct and are being held in lieu of $100 bond on each of the charges.

"Seventy-six citizens have been arrested in the last few weeks for exercising their constitutional right to protest against the unjust, undemocratic practices in this county which violate human dignity, rob young Marylanders of their hopes and dreams, and which result in the tragic waste of human resources," Dr. Jackson's telegram said.

Meanwhile, Clarence Logan, CIG chairman, said he had sent a telegram to Tawes protesting alleged segregation practices on the Baltimore City police force.

Logan asked Tawes to issue a directive to the police department banning racial discrimination on the force. Representatives of CIG, NAACP, the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the Negro-American Labor Council met with Police Commissioner Bernard J. Schmidt Friday and wanted to know why there are no Negro police captains or inspectors on the force.

Schmidt said men are selected for promotion the basis of experience and qualifications and that no Negroes are eligible for the posts because they lack these requirements.

Danger Of Tainted

had a lead to another man who might have used Bland's Social Security card. But he was pessimistic about chances of ever locating the donor with malignant malaria.

"This situation results from the fact that hospitals are dependent on commercial blood banks for a large portion of the blood they require," Fuerst said.

"These blood banks in turn find it necessary to buy much of their blood from homeless, transient and irresponsible donors.

"As long as our city is dependent on such sources for a large portion of its blood supply we can expect to run into problems similar to this one. The solution, I believe, is operation of a community blood center, such as the one which will soon be in operation.

"It will remove our dependence on Bowery blood."

Meantime, the patient has recovered from both the operation and the malignant malaria, which Fuerst said can be cured when detected early.

Both Fuerst and Dr. George James, health commissioner, said it is not clinically feasible to check blood donated for transfusions.

There are just too many diseases which would require too much time and expense, Fuerst explained, "and very frequently the parasites would not be detected in the blood."

Maryland News In Brief Form

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — The Goodwill Fire Company of Centreville got a slightly second-hand fire truck Saturday, even though the city paid $20,000 cash for a new one.

B. L. Harris of the Glenn Culvert Co. of Hyattsville which sold the 800-gallon pumper to the Centreville volunteer firemen, was delivering the truck when a policeman flagged him down to extinguish a fire in the back seat of an automobile.

Harris put out the fire, then hopped back aboard and drove on to Centreville.

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Chester Merrow, a State Department adviser, told about 200 Maryland public school teachers Saturday that "space supremacy regardless of cost should be one of the instrumentalities of U.S. foreign policy.

Speaking at the 22nd annual spring conference of the Eastern Shore Professional Group, Merrow said that it was essential for the United States to get to the moon from both a military and a psychological view point.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Democrat Hyman Pressman said Saturday he would accept the Republican nomination for city comptroller, and the city GOP will meet Monday to formally ask him.

However, Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan expressed some doubt as to the legality of the original GOP nominee for comptroller, W. Rae Dempsey, being able to resign just 18 days before the May 7 election.

"I would say a matter such as this usually ends up in the courts," Finan commented.

Dempsey quit the race after a corporation he formerly headed was ordered into receivership by the courts.

FERNDALE, Md. (AP) — Carlos R. Grosso, 35, was charged Saturday with the double slaying of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schamberg.

Grosso muttered "the people I love the most" as he heard the warrant charging him with the homicide of the Anne Arundel County couple. Hearing was set for next Saturday.

The Schambergs were found shot to death Friday night in their Ferndale after Grosso surrendered himself to police shortly before midnight. Police said there was no sign of a struggle in the house. Grosso, unemployed lived with the Schambergs.

ROYAL OAK, Md. (AP)—Year-round Christmas tree-like tinsel decorations on trees and fields have finally been explained to the residents of this small Eastern Shore community.

Mary Swain, who has collected several bushel baskets full of the metallic litter which has been falling for about 10 years, wrote the Air Force to explain why they were cluttering her yard.

The Air Force replied that the material was known as "chaff" and was dropped daily to train combat planes in electronic warfare and to train ground radar personnel and interceptor pilots to work through the chaff.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Consider Yourself Sophisticated? Read On . . .

Imagine yourself in a group of people . . . consider how you would answer these questions:

(1) Can you not envy another woman her attractive figure? (2) Can you walk across a crowded room, confident that your walk is graceful? (3) Can you sit for 15 minutes without fidgeting? (4) Can you see yourself in a mirror and compliment yourself on your appearance? (5) Can you refrain from frequent appraisals of make-up?

(6) Can you speak with knowledge that your audience will listen? (7) Can you let your hands rest easily without having to conceal roughness or chipped nail polish? (8) Can you put others at ease by your gracious manner? (9) Can you converse intelligently on a normal evening's topics? (10) Can you honestly exhibit interest in all that goes on around you?

If all ten answers are "yes," by my definition you are a sophisticated woman—you pass the tests of being at ease. If you came to a "no" answer or two, learn how to make negatives into positives.

Tackle your weight problem to smooth unattractive angles into becoming curves. Make your walk graceful by concentrating on exercises for posture and balance. Learn how to relax while seated: grace in repose is as elemental to charming sophistication as is grace in motion. Choose dresses and accessories that enhance your best points, and make your mirrored self look smart.

Experiment with makeup until you achieve a natural glow. Acquire "listenability"—the quality which makes people want to hear you speak. Concentrate on what others are doing and saying, to help you forget yourself.

Be aware of the world and appreciate all that it offers. Be intrested in many things; you'll be a more interesting person. You'll have the sophistication that puts you at ease with yourself and others.

"YOUR THIRTY DAYS TO CHARM" is a guide to feminine attractiveness that lists 30 tips on glamour, compiled for you by a group of the country's most successful Powers' models. For your copy of this handy beauty calendar, send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Secrets of Charm," in care of this newspaper.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A J 10 ♡A 10 9 2 ◇K 8 4 3 ♣7 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. This may seem strange with a worthless doubleton in clubs, but the point is that a raise in spades may not be offered with an absolutely minimum hand. This hand contains 13 points. In point of fact, there is some doubt as to whether this hand should be opened. It comes only in the optional class, but, if it is opened, the brakes must be applied at once.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠A 10 6 2 ♡K J 6 5 2 ◇Q ♣A Q 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 NT	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. This bid is preparatory to bidding six no trump, the safety of which we have no doubt. But there may be greater things in store for us and we had better tell all.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠K 7 2 ♡9 6 3 2 ◇K 6 5 4 ♣8 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
2 ♡	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—While it is true that you have a very sound raise of your partner's demand bid, there is no further action that you can properly take. Tho you made a constructive response, partner did not proceed with any slam invitations even tho he had ample room to do so.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠J 7 5 3 ♡A K Q ♣A Q 9 8 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ◇	Double	2 ◇	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	2 ♡
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Our choice is for a bid of three clubs. This may savor a bit of the "road-hog," but there is method to what may appear to be our madness. On the surface it will seem strange to run out of a suit in which we hold the three top honors, but it must be recalled that partner was forced to speak, and may have four small trumps. He may find it quite inconvenient to have to ruff diamonds with the A-K-Q of trumps.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠J 10 7 4 2 ♡6 3 2 ◇7 5 ♣8 4 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♡	Double	Redouble	?

What action do you take?

A.—One spade. This is not considered a free bid. It is simply an inexpensive suggestion to partner as to where the hand might best be played. If you pass it to partner he may have to bid diamonds, which may prove unsatisfactory as a trump suit. Bear in mind that passing the redouble in this sequence does not express a desire to play the hand at that contract.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠8 3 2 ♡A Q 10 9 2 ◇A Q 9 8 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts, to describe a good five card suit. There is nothing to be gained by your bidding two no trump, which might suggest a little something in the black suits. Over three hearts, if partner is so inclined, he may bid three no trump.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠A 4 2 ♡7 ◇A K Q 9 8 6 3 ♣8 7

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	2 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—If South wishes to temporize, the proper call is three diamonds, with the intention of making a vigorous jump on the next round. An alternate call is a direct gambling bid of six diamonds, of which we do not disapprove.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠10 ♡K J 8 7 3 ◇K Q J 9 ♣A 10 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. Obviously, some mild effort should be made toward slam, and the recommended procedure is the showing of an ace rather than the display of another suit. Furthermore, this call affords partner a convenient opportunity to show the ace of diamonds.

Youth Blamed As Instigator Of Riot Jailed

BALTIMORE (AP) — James Junior Gaylord, 18, described as the spark that set off an Easter Monday riot in a city park, has been sentenced to 2 years and 10 days in the Maryland Institution for males.

"You're like the cow that kicked over the lamp that started the Chicago fire," Municipal Judge Jerome Robinson told Gaylord.

Judge Robinson had sentenced 20 other Negro youths to 10 days in city jail and another 8 months in the state reformatory earlier this week. He acquitted eight.

Judge Robinson found Gaylord guilty of assaulting and striking a policeman and disorderly conduct.

Approximately 30 police and half a dozen trained dogs were needed to quell the outbreak of violence in Druid Hill Park. Two teen-agers were stabbed, policeman assaulted, patrol cars damaged and a plank thrown through the windshield of a passing car in the outburst that had no racial intonations.

Two patrolmen testified that they arrested Gaylord after he engaged in two fights in the park. They said after he tried to escape from a patrol car and grappled with one of them, a crowd started throwing bottles, stones and sticks.

Gaylord told Judge Robinson he didn't remember what happened "because I was drunk."

Virgin Islands' First Bishop Is Consecrated

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Cedric E. Mills was consecrated the first resident bishop of the Virgin Islands Friday in ceremonies at St. James Episcopal Church.

The Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Bishop of Maryland, was the chief consecrator in the 90-minute ceremony attended by eight other Protestant Episcopal bishops.

The Rev. Dr. Mills was elected to the new bishopric last year at a meeting in Columbia, S.C. He has been rector of St. James, first self-sustaining Negro parish established 139 years ago south of New York, since 1940.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: What is wrong with my husband? He's a middle-aged, self-made man. But he hates rules and regulations and breaks them whenever he can.

If there's a sign that says, "No Smoking," he lights up at once. "Keep Off The Grass" is an invitation. I've seen him step right over a sign and stomp on the newly seeded lawn just for the devil of it. When a sign says "Rub, Don't Blot," he blots. Recently we brought a mattress which had a label on it saying "Don't remove this label." He got a scissors and cut it off.

All this is maddening, but when he breaks traffic regulations I go out of my mind. He's been stopped for speeding four times this year. He makes a game out of lying to the officer and tries to talk his way out of a ticket.

Please tell me why he is like this and what I can do about it.

— MARRIED TO A NUT

Dear Married: "The Nut" has emotional problems which go back many years. People who delight in breaking rules just to see if they can get away with it are still trying to put one over on ma and pa. The poor guy is a case of arrested development. He needs professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I need advice and fast. This is a second marriage for both my husband and me. I'm raising my husband's two children by his first wife. I have two children by my first husband.

His youngsters were very young when we married and mine were, too. We saw no reason to tell them they were step brothers and sisters. Everything was fine until a few weeks ago when our next door neighbor's son told our children they are step brothers and sisters. Now my husband's children gang up against my two and the four are forever quarreling and fighting.

Why can't neighbors mind their own business? That little brat's loose lip is wrecking our family. Can you help? — MOTHER AND STEP-MOTHER

Dear Mother: It would be very nice indeed if neighbors kept their noses out of other people's business. But this isn't the way the world works.

Anyone who counts on the closed mouths of neighbors or friends is leaning on a slender reed.

Please don't heap all the blame on the mouthy little neighbor kid. The truth told directly (and early) by you and your husband could have prevented this mess.

At this point I can suggest only patience, fairness and affection to each child in turn.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a boy 11 years of age. I am writing about a family problem. I hope you will print it in the paper because a lot of kids I know have the same trouble.

Every night there are fights at our house because of TV. Mom wants to watch some gooey love story and pa wants to see wrestling or a gun fight.

There are four of us kids and we don't get to say a word about which channel is on. Plenty of nights it is nothing but junk. Don't you think in a free country the majority should rule?

Thank you very much.

— NOTHING TO SAY

Dear Nothing To Say: Four kids in the family and you think the majority should rule? Well, remember Sydney Hook's famous words, "Majority rule is not reasonable in a prison, an institution for the feeble-minded, or in a family of small children."

And instead of hanging around the boob-tube every night, I'd like to recommend an old-fashioned pastime. It's called reading.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

W. Va. Governor May Call Extra Legislative Session

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)— Gov. W. W. Barron indicated here over the weekend he may call a special session of the Legislature if the Board of Public Works fails Monday to come up with funds to keep welfare grants at current levels through June 30th.

Barron, Legislative members, state officials and members of the BPW were here this weekend to take part in the reenactment of the Declaration of Wheeling which greeted West Virginia's pending statehood in 1861.

Board members reportedly are no closer to a solution to the problem of finding $450,000 for the Welfare Department than they were a week ago when a series of meetings started.

Some indicate money could be provided without a special session while others say there is no alternative but to call the lawmakers to solve the problem.

When the Welfare Department recently ordered a 20 per cent cutback in welfare checks, the governor ordered them restored. He said the board believed it could find the money by shifting funds and making economies in the department's budget.

McNamara Versus 'The Guard'

In advance copies of a speech prepared for the Governors' Conference last year, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara referred to some National Guard units as "paper tigers," inadequately prepared to carry out their responsibilities if called to fight in modern war. In the delivery of the speech, this passage was deleted. But the unuttered statement was wholly justified, and the Adjutants General Association of the U. S. is now prepared to express its own sentiments on the subject at its annual meeting opening in San Juan, Puerto, today.

The association's current complaint is that the proposed fiscal 1964 defense budget provides inadequate funds to prepare the newly reorganized National Guard units to be something more than paper tigers. McNamara's "realignment" scheme will be all but completed by this summer when the units go to camp, but they still are woefully short of the quantity and types of equipment needed for optimum readiness.

Once the hue and cry is sounded in San Juan, it will be picked up in Congress. The National Guard has a long-standing reputation as one of the country's best politically protected organizations. It has been said that the National Guard is primarily a small-town operation that serves as both social center and business center. A 100-man unit can bring in more than $52,000 in federal pay and allowances every year, and there are 4,336 Guard units dispersed throughout more than 2,600 communities in the 50 states.

Grave doubts about the military value of the Guard, and of Army Reserve units, too, were raised during the October 1961 mobilization of certain units in response to the Berlin crisis. McNamara subsequently came up with a highly unpopular reorganization plan which would have pared the Guard from 400,000 men to 365,000. The manpower cut was dropped as a concession to the governors, as was McNamara's plan to close 16 state-owned armories. McNamara's original fiscal 1964 budget projected an abandonment of the $5 million high school ROTC program, which now enrolls 60,000 cadets in 255 schools. Within a few weeks the cries from Congress persuaded McNamara to continue the program through fiscal 1964 pending "additional study".

These Days

By John Chamberlain

The Fifties Weren't Futile

My old Lucepaper colleague, Emmett John Hughes, who served President Eisenhower in the White House and came out bewailing the fact that he wasn't given the opportunity to become the Arthur Schesinger Jr. of his day, has recently sounded off on the "futility" of the Nineteen Fifties. If you missed the point in some of his contentious magazine articles, you can get it in his controversial "I-was-there-but-ignored" book called "The Ordeal of Power."

One can appreciate Mr. Hughe's impatience with a boss who liked to have every recommendation placed on a single sheet of paper (how galling to a writer who likes to expand his thoughts), but this business of down-grading the decade of the Fifties makes no sense. The glory of Ike as President was that he permitted government for eight wonderful years to get off the backs of people.

He might have done better about foreign policy, though it was no small achievement to keep the Red Chinese from grabbing Quemoy and Matsu as the island stepping stones to Formosa, and he might have spent considerable less money on aimless domestic and foreign aid projects. But, generally speaking, Ike had the common sense to realize that people are better off if they aren't tied to the apron strings of government.

Having come of age in that other much-maligned era which has gone down in history as the Roaring Twenties, when Coolidge made the White House a peaceful dormitory, I thoroughly enjoyed much of Ike's decade. In the Twenties we lived through a little renaissance; the books were good, the popular music was good, the trips to Europe which we could somehow manage on skimpy pay checks were fun. True enough, the moral tone of much that went on in the Twenties was not particularly elevated, but that was due to Prohibition, which was a legacy of a previous busybody era when government thought it might properly aim to tell a man what he might and might not put in his stomach. The economic crash that put an end to our pleasure was also a delayed result of the benightedness of governments, for hadn't they crowned a disastrous war in 1919 with a peace that would have caused Metternich or Bismarck or any other Nineteenth Century statesman to blanch with horror?

I liked Ike's Fifties because they seemed a bit like a reprise of the Twenties. Businessmen ceased to be shellshocked, and as they emerged from the storm cellars they gave us a lot of good things, from good paper back books to sterophonic sound.

There were, as one observer put it, the "seven fat years," with a rising standard of living that had the economists rapturous over their new totem, the Gross National Product, or GNP. In the Fifties people got out of their seats in the bleachers and started to have fun on their own two feet. New marinas dotted the rivers, lakes and bays as the population went boat-crazy; husbands and wives took to bowling at ten-thirty at night in order to get pleasantly tired for a restful night's sleep; the skiers turned our mountain regions into happy Tyrols which needed only a few yodelers to challenge Europe for the real McCoy in gemutlichkeit.

This was the lighter side of the Fifties. On the serious side, Ike's decade witnessed a conservative revival that restored a healthy tension to our intellectual life. The liberalism that had been vibrantly challenging in the Thirties had grown calcified; zestful debate had gone out of fashion; and we had grown increasingly intolerant of any dissent from the shibboleths of the Welfare State. Along with the intolerance went a disgraceful hypocrisy that gave the merest lip service to the virtues of free speech. In Ike's decade this hypocrisy was unmasked, though news of it has yet to reach a few of our more prominent liberal Bourbons.

Well, the Fifties, like the Twenties, are now a nostalgic memory. But nobody is going to call them futile in my presence without getting a tart rejoinder of "'twasn't so."

Outlook For Steel Industry Now Is Better

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Americans pride themselves in the belief that they have a "government of law." But the news dispatches of the last few days cast doubt on whether in certain instances such a system really prevails.

Again and again the public has been given the impression that somehow the President of the United States today has the power under law to approve or disapprove of steel prices. When the announcement was made a week ago that a small steel company had raised its prices, there began to appear dispatches from Washington and Palm Beach which reported widespread conjecture as to whether the White House would interfere and squelch the price rise.

Virtually all the steel companies, one by one, now have announced their decision to follow the first company, but each has applied the formula of a price rise a little differently on a "selective" basis.

Does the President really have any power to forbid price rises? There is no law that says so. But if the steel companies follow one another in a certain course of action, can they be prosecuted? The laws are not clear. There is some reason to believe that it is a possible violation of existing federal laws for several companies in an industry to conspire to raise their prices, and by the same token it is said to be unlawful for them even to reduce prices in concert.

Supposing, however, the companies do not consult one another but each one actually arrives at a judgement independently, can this action be prosecuted? The answer is that existing law is vague, and this point never has been clearly interpreted by the Supreme Court. There is one law which says that it is a crime to sell goods at "unreasonably low prices for the purpose of destroying a competitor." The Supreme Court has recognized that a company might have a "legitimate commercial objective" such as "liquidation of excess, obsolete or perishable merchandise or to meet a lawful equally low price of a competitor."

But there apparently are risks in reducing prices as dangerous as in raising prices. If companies follow each other, what is their motive? Each company that is operating on a narrow margin may feel it should go to a higher price if its competitor does. It's the larger companies which, by keeping prices down, can drive a small company out of business.

Economic law — The natural circumstances that govern supply and demand — should, of course, prevail. But in recent months another factor far more potent than economic law itself somehow has gotten into the picture. It is the power of the President of the United States to threaten companies with grand jury investigations if the administration happens to dislike a rise in prices at a particular time.

When Mr. Kennedy in the last few days decided to acquiesce in what are called "selective" price increases in the steel industry, he took a constructive step which will do more to improve the business situation than even a tax cut could do.

Confidence on the part of the business world is a difficult thing to measure. Its absence is readily apparent, and its presence is a material factor in encouraging business planning and business expansion.

When Mr. Kennedy this time refrained from using Presidential influence on the price-making machinery, he, in effect, proclaim throughout the business world a message of encouragement. It could change the whole trend in business generally and bring the stimulus that has been lacking during the last 12 months.

But, it is often asked, will not the price increase bring inflation? The answer is to be found in examining the experience of the past with price increases. Sometimes they stick and sometimes they cannot stand up against buyer resistance. But even so, a moderate rise in the cost of materials doesn't always lead to a corresponding price increase by the users.

Businessmen hesitate a long time before increasing prices. They want the demand for their products not to diminish but to increase. They want larger and larger volume. It is conceivable that there may be some small increases in prices by users of steel. But the test will be whether a larger volume can be attained.

As for union labor, its leaders are familiar with the "profit squeeze" and also with the high cost of strikes. It will be a year or more before there can be a determination of the extent to which the current price rise will actually increase profits of the steel companies. The outlook in the steel industry for at least a year of progress now has changed for the better.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

JFK IN TIGHT SPOT — The "big" legislative effort of the year that has been undertaken by President Kennedy, of course, is achievement of a tax cut to stimulate the national economy. He and his economic aides have been beating the drums for a cut since Congress returned to Washington last January, and they're not apt to ease up.

But even here there are mounting signs that major portions of the tax cut proposal are in jeopardy and that when all's said and done the program adopted will look little like the Kennedy proposal and that he'll get precious little credit for it.

In the first place, the Kennedy plan as originally conceived called for a calculated budget deficit. The idea was to stimulate the economy by an outpouring of federal money in relation to its intake. Now, however, there is much talk of economy on Capitol Hill, and some sizable cuts in the Kennedy budget are in the offing. If these cuts are effectuated, and if the tax cut doesn't provide that relatively large federal outgo, the "stimulus" that Kennedy wanted for the economy may not come to pass.

Should this happen, Kennedy will be blamed for reducing taxes needlessly, without reaping any of the benefits for which the reduction was designed.

At this writing, at least, it looks very much that in the area of tax cuts and budget cuts Kennedy's political foes are in a position of heads we win, tails you lose.

New Remedy For Bothersome Fever Blister

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Several remedies for fever blisters have come and gone during the last two decades. Their going was not a calamity because the disorder, herpes simplex, is a benign infection unless complications occur and the eyes are affected. But those who find herpes a bothersome problem might be interested in a new remedy that worked exceptionally well in all but one of 18 patients.

The product is I. D. U., which is short for 5-ido-2-deoxyuridine, a liquid that blocks viral metabolism. It was prepared in the Smith, Kline & French laboratories and used by three staff members in two Brighton hospitals in England. They reported relief of pain and a marked change in the eruption within 24 to 72 hours. It is well known that fever blisters usually persist 7 to 21 days, regardless of the remedy used.

I.D.U. was prepared originally to combat herpes of the eyes. This is a serious condition, especially when ulcer develops on the cornea and the residual scar blocks vision. I.D.U. proved to have a significant anti-viral effect and it was natural from these results to use the compound on herpetic infections of the skin.

According to a report in the British Medical journal, the product was applied hourly in the form of a solution during the waking hours only. An ointment also was used four times a day. In all probability treatments will be simplified as more experience is gained with the product.

There have been on recurrences of the lesion. This is important and the British physicians have their fingers crossed until more time has elapsed. These lesions are a nuisance when they return with every cold, emotional upset, or menstrual period. Others develop them when overtired, following exposure to the sun, or whenever they eat certain foods.

Will I.D.U. prevent these recurrences? We hope so, because prevention will solve another medical toughie.

BALDING JAW

D. W. writes: A man has been losing hair on one side of the face for eight months. These bare spots make his jawline look like a woman's. He insists it is just nerves. What causes this type of patchy baldness on the face?

REPLY

Alopecia areata. This may be temporary but meanwhile the bald areas can be camouflaged with cosmetics. In addition, he can use medications to stimulate regrowth of hair.

BLOOD VESSEL WEAKNESS

H. B. writes: Is Bright's disease inherited? My grandfather died of it at age 42, my brother at age 34, and a cousin at 35. I'm 41 and have had one bout of this disorder.

REPLY

No. But certain causes are inherited, such as vascular disease that leads to high blood pressure and kidney involvement.

CURE NOT EASY

J. C. writes: Can a person who has been on dope for four years ever get cured?

REPLY

Yes, but drug addiction is difficult to cure. The chances are better for those who have been addicted for a short duration, such as four years, than for individuals who have been using narcotics 10 of 15 years.

LOOKING INTO THE LARYNX

G. S. writes: How is cancer of the larynx detected?

REPLY

With a special mirror that allows the physician to see around the bend in the throat. The laryngoscope also can be used for this purpose.

STUBBORN NEURALGIA

N. M. writes: I have neuralgia that hasn't been helped by aspirin or vitamins B1 and 12. Is there anything else to try?

REPLY

Certain types of neuralgia can be corrected with specific remedies or through surgery. Consult a neurological surgeon.

CAT PHOBIA

J. R. writes: I am disturbed by the belief that continual handling of cats and being near them eventually leads to tuberculosis. Is there any truth in this belief?

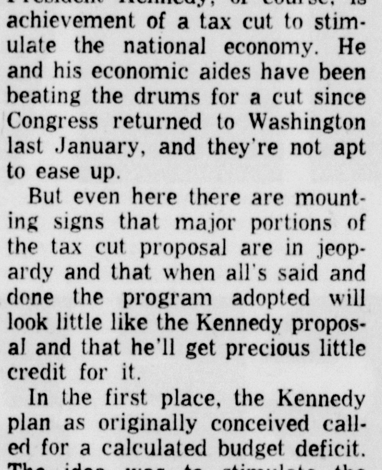
REPLY

No. Cat phobias (ailurophobial) take many forms.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf



Near the end of a tense golf match, one of the contestants, very temperamental, was thrown off his game when his caddie developed a severe attack of hiccoughs. On the seventeenth hole, he sliced a drive clean out of bounds, and growled fiercely at the caddie, "That was on account of you and your — — hiccoughs." "But I didn't hiccough then, sir," protested the caddie. "That's just the point," screamed the player. "I had ALLOWED for it!"

Senator Borah of Idaho mailed out more letters to constituents than any of his colleagues —and the bulk of them went to his bitterest political enemies. "No point in sending copies of my speeches to friends who already agree with me," Borah explained." My enemies, however, read every word I say — looking for mistakes."

"I'm a man of few words," thundered a pompous congressman in the House one day.

"Could be," chuckled a congressman across the aisle, "but you're keeping them mighty busy."

Government Suppresses Facts On Nuclear Mishap, CIA Funds

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — At the very same time that editor John M. Coburn of the Wichita Eagle was impressing the American Society of Newspaper editors with "mounting evidence" of suppressed news, the government was suppressing two vital pieces of information.

One was the report on a malfunction of the Consolidated Edison nuclear reactor at Indian Point, Westchester County, New York, which is approximately five miles from 18 open lakes which supply drinking water to several million people in New York City.

As far as can be ascertained, the malfunction was not of a nature to contaminate the nearby water or neighborhood with radioactivity. However, whether serious or minor, the public has a right to know and the Atomic Energy Commission has kept its report classified.

Under the law, operating reports are required to be filled in the AEC document room every six months, and written within 24 hours if there is a nuclear accident. However, the AEC has set up rules of its own, and has suppressed any details about the Consolidated Edison accident, even though it occurred five months ago.

Secrecy Over Exiles

Second news suppression was regarding the expenditure of $200,000 a month to Cuban exiles by Central Intelligence. There was no denial that this money was being spent. However, official queries as to which Cuban groups were getting the money and what it was used for brought the answer "classified."

This is part of the strict secrecy shroud placed around Central Intelligence, by which it is able to bribe foreign politicians, recruit armies, and even hire naval vessels with no account to Congress, the General Accounting Office or anyone else.

Part of the $200,000 monthly payment to Cuban exiles is to carry out the CIA program of raiding the Cuban coast, which puts both the exiles and Central Intelligence in the position of carrying out a directly contrary policy to that of the President.

In other words, Cuban exiles are paid by one branch of the government to do one thing — and told not to do it by the commander-in-chief.

This apparent conflict is all the more reason for letting the public have the full facts. However, CIA, information remains surpressed.

Note — CIA Chief John McCone has been growling privately about Kennedy's policy in Cuba, has said it has permitted Khrushchev to take over. CIA agents are known to have been in touch with Sen. Ken Keating, N. Y., Kennedy's No. 1 Republican critic on Cuba, in the past.

Bobby Invades South

Attorney General Robert Kennedy has been advised by friends that he may be taking his life in his hands in visiting strife-ridden Alabama this week. However, he is going anyway.

The President's brother is speaking before the University of South Carolina on Thursday, April 25, and, while in the South, wants to confer with Gov. Donald Russell of South Carolina, Gov. Carl E. Sanders of Georgia, and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

There was no trouble about seeing the first two. However, Gov. Wallace at first was reluctant. He fingered a telegram received from the Attorney General as if it were red hot asbestos. The telegram read: "Arriving Montgomery Wednesday evening April 24. I should like to call on you either then or next morning if you can spare a few minutes."

At first the Governor of Alabama indicated to friends that he would be too busy. Then he figured that perhaps the Attorney General was a man worth talking to after all.

Governor Wallace is an affable, likeable man, but the hair rises on the back of his neck like a hound dog facing a coon when anyone talks to him about integrating the University of Alabama.

And simultaneously with the receipt of Bob Kennedy's telegram, Alabamans had received word that the Kennedy's had been talking to Mrs. Martin Luther King in an effort to help her husband, jailed in Birmingham. All this added to the unwelcome atmosphere as far as the Attorney General is concerned.

Bobby Can Be Charming

What the Attorney General wants to do is talk face-to-face with Governor Wallace, not on the telephone, and not at the last minute, about the certain showdown which is coming over integration of the university.

The Attorney General doesn't plan to lay down any ultimatums. Bobby can be extremely friendly and charming. Also he can be tough. He's planning to try to persuade the Governor of Alabama to take a more reasonable stand, and not turn Alabama into another Mississippi. The last thing Kennedy wants to do is have to arrest the Governor of Alabama.

Note — Bob Kennedy will hold a press conference in Alabama, will answer questions on TV if requested. He was invited to speak at the University of South Carolina by the faculty, part of a move by Southern universities, which many Northerners don't appreciate, to give a hearing to all viewpoints. Southern universities have been extremely liberal in this respect.

Capital Chaff

Secretary of Defense McNamara has suggested privately that upper classmen at West Point, Annapolis, and the Air Force Academy should be ordered to curb their hazing of first-year men . . . The Arkansas Gazette commented with interest on the fact that Gov. Orval Faubus was found cutting underbrush along the highway "with a double-bitted axe so soon after the formal beheading of Highway Director F. R. Oliver." Faubus was found in the underbrush somewhat in the fashion of Moses' discovery by Pharoah's daughter . . . As far as the Arkansas Gazette is concerned, "Mr. Faubus can stay up there in the hills as long as he likes." . . . The State Department has okayed a passport to Cuba for Irving Ward-Steinman, the Alexandria, La., radio broadcaster, but the Czech embassy, which deals with Cuban affairs, has not been able to wangle an invite from El Doctor Fidel Castro.

La Goulue

By John Crosby

PARIS

I bought lunch for Paulette Goddard the other day and settled back to watch her strong white teeth tear away at a steak. My goodness, she's a hungry girl! Paulette's appetite, along with the headwaters of the Nile and the movement of the tides, is one of the great forces of the world and people come for miles to watch the sheer enthusiasm that girl puts into the act of swallowing.

She was staying at the Ritz, which didn't interfere with her eating habits in any way. "Every time I come in from the market with my basket full of food, I run into Charlie Ritz, and he wants to know what I do with all that food in my room. Well, I'm always hungry in France. They give you such little portions here," she told me, eating away, neither the food nor the words interfering with one another.

What does she buy at the market to tide her over between meals?

"Everything," she said cheerfully. "Yogurt. Cheese. Fruit. Ham. Sausage. I never travel without sausage. I keep my fool in my stocking drawer at the hotel, it's the only way I can keep anything, they're so well disciplined, those maids. They don't realize that a little piece of black bread and cheese is a matter of life and death. A girl needs something to ge her from lunch to dinner, you know. The maids won't throw away anything if it's in the stocking drawer. Goat cheese is particularly good for stocking drawers because it doesn't smell up the stockings. My stocking drawer is never without a little slice of smoked salmon. Caviar, too."

That covered the snack situation fairly well. What did she do between snacks?

"I go to restaurants," reported Miss Goddard with immense gusto. "Older men like to feed me. It's their way of courting me. It's the only way they have left, poor dears."

How old does a fellow have to be to be considered an older man? I asked.

"Eighty-year-old Frenchmen like to take me to dinner," she said. "'It's marvellous to watch you eat,' they tell me. I always appeal to that kind of Frenchman because I'm so full of life," she declared, masticating furiously.

I said I could fully understand this. Watching Paulette eat is a little like watching thunderstorms. You feel you're witnessing one of the elemental life forces.

"I can't understand three wines at lunch—" Paulette is essentially an eating girl, not a drinking girl—"white wine with the fish, red with the meat, and then champagne with dessert if they're courting me. How do you get through the rest of the day after all that?"

This is a great town for a hungry woman, but Paulette has a few suggestions for the restaurants. "The plates are always so hot and so enormous," she complained. "But the portions! I always look at what's on the plate and say, "It's awfully small, isn't it?" I'm an American girl and I'm used to American-sized portions. That's why I have to go to the grocery store every day. You get five courses at lunch, but they're all so small."

She switched abruptly from the subject of food to the subject of Hollywood, which she left many, many years ago, but about which she's still an expert observer.

"Everything in Hollywood now is geriatrics," she observed shrewdly. "They're all retired, the people I once knew, and they're solely interested in staying alive. They spend all their time out there in health food shops. My mother is in her seventies and her sole enthusiasm is just survival. She sold her home and moved into the Bel Air Hotel because she doesn't want any of the responsibilities or tensions of running a home. "I want to prolong my life,' she says."

BOSTON (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers fought back from the brink of elimination for a 126-119 National Basketball Association playoff victory Sunday night over the Boston Celtics.

The Celtics, within one victory of their fifth straight pro basketball championship, blew leads of up to seven points in the game before a capacity 13,909 at Boston Garden.

Boston's Sam Jones, with 33 points, and Tom Heinsohn with 23 points, were unable to match the hot Lakers' twosome of Elgin Baylor with 43 and Jerry West who had 32.

Tom Heinsohn Ejected

The final minutes of the game produced a near riot when Boston's Bob Cousy went out on fouls and Tom Heinsohn was ejected after the second of two technical fouls.

An unidentified fan rushed onto the court and tried to reach referee Richie Powers after the Heinsohn ejection but was dragged from the court by four policemen.

In addition, two fans took wild and unconnected swings at Powers and referee Mendy Rudolph as they left the court. A dozen policemen and the burly Los Angeles team quickly surrounded the two officials and escorted them from the auditorium.

Celtics Regain Edge

Boston went up by three points in the first quarter but Los Angeles fought back for a 55-52 half time lead. The Celtics, with a 40 point third quarter regained a 92-90 edge.

Boston was leading, 94-90, in the opening minutes of the fourth period when Baylor and West ignited Los Angeles to a five point lead and managed to preserve at least most of it through the rest of the game.

In the telling Laker push, Baylor sank a layup, West dropped in a short jump shot, Baylor got a free throw, West hit on a long one hander, and Baylor scored from the corner for a 99-94 bulge. The Celtics later closed the margin to a single point but never could catch the Lakers.

Lakers Trail, 3-2

The victory left Los Angeles trailing by one game, 3-2, in the best of seven playoff finals. The teams move to Los Angeles for the sixth game of the series. A seventh game, if needed, will be here next Saturday.

JOHANSSON SAVED BY BELL — Ingemar Johansson, European heavyweight champion, rolls on canvas after being sent there by Brian London, former British Empire champion, with a vicious hook in the final seconds of the final round of their 12-round bout in Stockholm, Sweden, Sunday night. As the referee's count reached four, the bell sounded and Johansson was declared the winner on points in the non-title fight. Swedish boxing experts were unanimous in declaring that if the bell hadn't rung Johansson would have lost. (AP Photofax by radio from Stockholm).

Johansson Is Floored But Decisions London

Ingo Saved By Bell In Final Round Of Bout At Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—Former world heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, outpointed Brian London of England Sunday night although Ingemar was floored in the final 12th round and was saved by the bell.

Thirty-year-old Johansson's European heavyweight crown was not at stake in this fight with former world challenger London before a booing capacity crowd of 12,000 in the Johanneshov Ice Stadium here.

Ingemar, who had won the world title and lost it and failed to recover it in his three championship fights with Floyd Patterson in 1959, '60 and '61, had hoped that an impressive victory over speedy London of Blackpool, England, would boost him toward another world-title shot.

London weighed 206 pounds; Johansson 200.

Ingemar, with an overwhelming point lead, was knocked backwards to the canvas in the 12th round by a wild-swinging right to the head.

Reeling At Finish

There were only two seconds left in the fight when Ingo bounced to his feet at the count of four. But he appeared not able to defend himself if the bout had continued. He was reeling on his feet—still groggy from striking the back of his head on the canvas when he hit the floor.

Ingemar apparently suffered no serious injury to his head. The force of his fall was broken somewhat by a new, softer-than-usual canvas padding, with which promoter Edwin Ahlqvist had recently equipped the ring.

The knockdown timekeeper explained afterwards that actually there had been only two seconds left in the bout when Ingo hit the canvas. But the crowd was roaring so loudly that referee Andrew Smythe did not hear the final bell sound before Johansson got up at the count of four.

There were no other knockdowns in the fight.

Johansson registered his 26th victory in 28 bouts. His only two losses were his knockouts in the second and third world title fights with Patterson.

Tenth Loss For London

London suffered his 10th defeat in 38 bouts. Brian, 28, is a former Empire champion who tried to win the world title from Patterson at Indianapolis, Ind., in 1959, but was stopped in the 11th round.

Johansson was expected to receive about $50,000 for Sunday night's bout; London, about $10,000.

Catamounts Top HJC; Frosturg Loses To Rams

Both Potomac State and Frostburg State Teachers College were hooked up in wild, free-scoring games on enemy soil Saturday.

The Catamounts whipped Hagerstown Junior College, 16-9, in the Hub City, but Frostburg was on the losing end of the score (13-10) in its battle with Shepherd College at Shepherdstown.

Potomac State came through with nine runs in the third inning, and went on to record victory number two against four losses and a tie.

Rich Robinson, who worked the first six innings for the Catamounts, picked up his second win in four decisions. Houser was the victim of Potomac's third inning uprising, and was charged with the defeat.

Leftfielder Mike Stellabotte was the Catamounts' hitting star with a home run and two singles in four official at bats, and John Clay was 3-for-5, with a triple among his safeties.

Frostburg had an 8-1 lead going into the third inning, but the roof caved in. The home team Rams pushed across seven runs in the inning, and went on to outscore the Bobcats.

Bill Lovett, who relieved starter Bill Carder in the third inning, suffered the loss. The Rams' Peneul, who pitched to all but the last Bobcat batter, got the win.

Hank Winner had three of Frostburg's 12 hits, including a double, and John Nussear, Dennis Moore and Gene Wood each collected a pair of base knocks. Shepherd outhit FSTC, 13-12.

For the Bobcats, who were attempting to even their season record, the loss was the fifth in eight outings.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —Veteran umpire Jocko Conlan was injured Sunday when he was struck on the right shoulder by a foul tip in the fourth inning of the nightcap of the Philadelphia Phillies St. Louis Cardinals doubleheader.

Yankees Trade Jim Coates For Steve Hamilton

Sell Brown To Colts, Acquire Harry Bright

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The New York Yankees swapped pitchers with the Washington Senators, trading Jim Coates to the Nats for Steve Hamilton.

The Yankees also announced they have sold pitcher Hal Brown to the Houston Colts for about the waiver price and acquired utility outfielder Harry Bright from the Cincinnati Reds for an undisclosed amount of cash and a minor league player to be named at a later date.

Hamilton, 26, a southpaw, had an 0-1 record for the season. He worked only two innings. In 1962, Hamilton posted a 3-8 record and had a 3.79 earned run average.

Coates, 7-6 with the Yankees last season, failed to make an appearance in any of New York's 10 games played to date.

Brown, a righthander who came to New York from Baltimore last year with a 6-4 record on the season, lost his only decision with the Yankees. He failed to see any action this season.

Bright, who played with Pittsburgh and Washington before moving to Cincinnati, batted .273 for the Senators in 1962.

Giants Split, Keep NL Lead

Cubs Score 4-1 Win In Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's home run power awakened for a 3-2 victory over Chicago Sunday after the Cubs won the opener of a doubleheader 4-1.

The split enabled the Giants to stretch their National League lead to one game.

Willie McCovey and Willie Mays each clouted his fourth home run in the second game to back up Billy O'Dell's six-hit pitching. The homers off loser Cal Koonce, 0-1, were the Giants' first in three games.

Chicago's Dick Ellsworth, 2-1, scattered six hits in six innings of the opener, then left for Barney Schultz who held the Giants hitless over the last three frames. San Francisco's only run scored on an error by third baseman Ron Santo.

Cuba Trounces U. S. In Pan-Am Baseball, 13-1

U. S. Breaks Four Swimming Records

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — The United States won two gold medals in judo and smashed four records in swimming but suffered a stunning 13-1 beating by Cuba in baseball, the U.S. "national pastime," Sunday on the first full day of competition in the Pan-American Games.

The Cubans, cheered on by a noisy group of fans, smashed four U.S. pitchers for 15 hits, including a pair of home runs by Pedro Chaves, one of them a grand slam. In the meantime, Cuban pitcher Modesto Verdura held the U.S. team, made up of collegians and military servicemen, to seven futile and scattered hits.

Against this performance, Clark on was suffering a 10-2 walloping by Chile Saturday night in the opening event of the games, the U.S. team picked up some glory in judo, a sport new to the games this year, and swimming, an old U.S. standby.

Two Judo Medals

There were four gold medals awarded in judo and the U.S. took half of them, with Toshiyuki Seino, an Air Force serviceman from Los Angeles, winning in the lightweight division, and George Harris, another Air Force man, from Travis Air Force Base, Calif., taking the heavyweight.

In swimming Steve Clark of Los Altos, Calif., Charles Bittick of Long Beach, Calif., and Chet Jastremski of Toledo, Ohio, set games records and Ed Bartsch of Philadelphia broke a South American record. All these were done in preliminary heats.

Breaks Swim Mark

Clark won his heat in the men's 100 meter freestyle swim in 54.7 seconds, breaking the mark of 56.2 set by Jeff Farrell of the U.S. in 1959.

Bittick clocked 1:03.3 in winning his heat in the 100-meter backstroke, just barely beating Athos Aliviera of Brazil. Bittick broke the mark of 1:03.6 set by Frank McKinney of the U.S. in 1959.

Sets Game Mark

Jastremski, the world record holder, took his 200-meter breaststroke heat in 2:37.4, cracking the mark of 2:43.1 set by Bill Mulliken of the U.S. in 1959.

Bartsch won his heat in the 100-meter backstroke in 1:03.7, slower than Bittick but under the old South American record of 1:03.3 held by Oliveira.

The U.S. stars also advanced as expected in tennis. In men's play, Allen Fox of Los Angeles cruised over Roberto Russel of Jamaica, 6-0, 6-0, 6-1.

Darlene Hard Wins

Darlene Hard of Los Angeles, former U.S. women's champion, beat A. Palafez of Mexico, 6-2, 6-1, and Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif., downed Elena Subirato of Mexico, 6-3, 6-3.

Amazing Mets Sweep Twinbill From Braves

Hickman Shines In 8-5, 9-2 Wins

NEW YORK (UPI)—The amazing New York Mets swept a doubleheader from the Milwaukee Braves, 8-5 and 9-2, Sunday and completed a four-game sweep which gave them their longest winning streak in their brief history.

They came from behind in both games, winning the first on Jim Hickman's grand slam homer in the eighth inning and the nightcap with a flurry of nine runs in the last three innings.

When the series began the Mets had eight straight defeats without a victory and the Braves had a seven-game winning streak. Included in both strings were four games in Milwaukee last weekend.

But the Mets suddenly caught fire and broke their club record of three victories in a row, set against the Braves and equalled against the Cincinnati Reds last season.

A howling crowd of 26,775 saw Sunday's sweep.

Hickman's grand slam climaxed a five-run uprising which wiped out a 5-3 Milwaukee lead in the first game. He hit it off Claude Raymond, who was attempting to rescue loser Ron Piche.

Hickman connected again in the eighth inning of the nightcap as the Mets rubbed it in with five superfluous runs off loser Lew Burdette. This homer was Hickman's third of the season.

McClure And Wright To Fight Saturday

NEW YORK (UPI) —Pfc. Wilbert (Skeeter) McClure and Teddy Wright, two American middleweight contenders just back from Europe, will meet in a nationally televised 10-rounder at the Toledo (Ohio) sports arena Saturday night.

Unbeaten McClure of Toledo and the U.S. Army has been stationed in Europe since last October. He outpointed West Indian Gomeo Brennan at Madison Square Garden in October just before his departure for Germany.

The 23-year-old McClure, the 1960 Olympic light middleweight champion, is favored at 11-5 because of his 13 straight professional victories since he turned professional in 1961. Six of his wins were on knockouts.

Charles Takes Houston Classic With Record 268

Noses Out Hawkins By Single Stroke For $10,000 Prize

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand used a final round 69 Sunday to carve out a 72-hold record 268—12 under par — to beat off tremendous surges by Fred Hawkins and amateur Homero Blancas and collect $10,000 top money in the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic.

The 67-66-66-69 — 268 made Charles the first left-hander ever to win a PGA sponsored tournament and it left him one stroke ahead of Hawkins, an El Paso veteran, and two ahead of Blancas, a 25-year-old University of Houston graduate.

Hawkins collected $4,600 with a 71-65-67-66—269 after starting the final round four strokes off the pace.

Blancas, son of a greenskeeper at Houston's exclusive River Oaks Country Club, was seven strokes off the pace but made the finest finish of an amateur in a PGA tournament by knocking out seven final round birdies against one bogey for a 68-68-70-64—270.

Jack Nicklaus, the Masters champion, started the round only three strokes behind the National Left-hander champion but ran into five bogies and had to settle for a 65-69-68-71—273 that was good for fourth place and $3,000.

The par-smashing effort was Charles' answer to a promise by the Classic's sponsors they would boost the scheduled top money of $9,000 to $10,000 if someone would win in 72 holes and prevent the tournament from having a fifth consecutive playoff.

It was the first PGA championship for the New Zealander.

His winnings Sunday nearly doubled his $5,607.64 winnings in the first nine stops on his first crack at the PGA tour.

Dodgers Beat Houston Twice

LA Scores 11-3 And 6-5 Wins

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ron Fairly singled home an unearned run Sunday in the bottom of the ninth to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 6-5 uphill victory in the second game of a doubleheader with the Houston Colts after they scored an easy 11-3 victory in the first game.

The hit was Fairly's third of the game as the red-haired infielder-outfielder smashed a two-run homer in the fourth to close the gap to 5-4. The Dodgers tied the game in the seventh on three singles with Frank Howard driving in Maury Wills as the big outfielder hit safely in his 10th consecutive game.

Ed Roebuck, the second pitcher in relief of starter Pete Richert, got credit for the win, while George Brunet, who took over for Bob Bruce after Fairly's fourth inning homer, was charged with the loss.

Ex-New York Met pitcher Bob Miller hurled five innings of the opener to get credit for his first win in a Dodger uniform.

Orioles Beat Cleveland, 7-0, But Lose Doubleheader Nightcap, 2-0

Steve Barber Hurls 4-Hitter In First Game

Birds Have Win Streak Snapped, But Retain Lead

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Dick Donovan pitched the Cleveland Indians to a four-hit, 2-0 victory in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday after the Baltimore Orioles had won the opener, 7-0, on Steve Barber's four-hit performance.

The twin-bill split snapped a four-game winning streak for the Orioles but they remained in first place in the American League.

After a leadoff single by Luis Aparicio in the first inning, Donovan retired 16 straight batters before Robin Roberts reached base on an error in the sixth. Donovan struck out six and did not walk a man in winning his first game of the season.

Woodie Held Homers

Woodie Held homered for the Indians in the second inning off Roberts for Cleveland's first run. Willie Kirklandgot a fluke double in the seventh on a ground ball that rolled between Jim Gentile and Jerry Adair and scored on Tito Francona's single.

In the opener, Barber was staked to a four-run lead in the first inning and was never in trouble as he breezed to his third win in four decisions. He struck out 11 men as he hurled his first complete game.

Jackie Brandt, benched for light hitting, celebrated his return to the lineup with a home run and a single in the first game. Brandt scored twice and drove in a pair.

Orioles KO Mc Dowell

The Orioles knocked out Sam McDowell after a third of an inning with two singles and three walks. Aparacio began the rally with an infield single. McDowell then walked the next three batters. Brooks Robinson drove in the second run with a sacrifice fly, and Boog Powell singled home another run that sent McDowell to the showers.

Adair lined a single to welcome Jim Perry. After John Orsino popped out, Barber walked to force in the final run of the inning.

Aparicio and Brandt each singled home a run in the fourth and Brandt's homer in the seventh accounted for the final run.

Frostburg Beaten In Track Opener

Frostburg State Teachers College opened its 1963 track season Saturday at Catonsville, losing to Catonsville Community College in a dual meet by the margin of 65-48.

Catonsville finished first in eight of the 13 events and had a triple winner in the person of McClanahan who copped the 100 and 220-yard dashes, and the high jump.

Charlie Robinson broke the Frostburg State record for the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.9 seconds, and also won the 220 low hurdles with 26.4 clocking.

Coach Harold Cordts' team's next start is set for Saturday, when the Bobcats travel to Fairmont for a dual test with the Fairmont State Falcons.

Twilight Old Gees To Practice Today

Cumberland's Old Germans, of the Twilight Baseball League, will hold an important practice session today at 5:15 p. m., at Fort Hill Field.

TWO THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY—These two Cumberland fishermen, Donald Pope (left) and Bill Smith, didn't have to make up any tales about the angling success they achieved last week at the Evitts Creek Community Ponds. They had the evidence to prove it. Using worms for bait, both men hooked good sized largemouth bass. Smith's catch weighed three pounds, and Pope's tipped the scales at two and one-quarter pounds.

Angels Turn Back Kansas City, 6-2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Felix Torres and Leon Wagner belted home runs to pace the Los Angeles Angels to a 6-2 victory over Kansas City Sunday.

It was the first home run of the season for each.

Don Lee picked up his second decision with a seven-hitter, but needed help from Jack Spring in the ninth. Ted Bowsfield absorbed his second loss. The Angels pounded out 11 hits, six of which were for extra bases.

Torres led off the second inning with a home run and Wagner's came with two mates aboard in the third. Albie Pearson doubled with one out, and after Billy Moran had walked and Lee Thomas fanned, Torres singled in Pearson. Wagner's home run then cleared the right field fence 370 feet away.

Phils Nip Cards In Ten Innings, Drop 2nd Game

Mahaffey Routed In 10-5 Nightcap

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis split Sunday when the Phillies took the opener, 4-3, in 10 innings only to have the Cardinals rout Art Mahaffey to win the second, 10-5.

Tony Gonzalez smashed a long double off the centerfield scoreboard to tally Johnny Callison, who had singled, with one out in the 10th. The winning hit came off reliever Ed Bauta, with Dallas Green getting his first victory in relief.

Curt Flood's homer off starter Cal McLish had tied the game 3-3 in the seventh. Gene Oliver gave the Cards an early 2-1 lead with a second inning homer and Don Demeter homered off starter Ron Taylor in the Phils' sixth after Oliver dropped a Wes Covington pop fly in front of the plate.

But the Cards roared back after Don Hoak's three-run homer off starter Bob Gibson in the first inning of the nightcap helped Mahaffey to a 4-0 lead. The Phils' righthander breezed through two innings but Dick Groat singled home two runs in the third and Mchaffey and Jack Baldschun came apart in the fourth when the Cards scored six.

Mahaffey filled the bases on two walks and a single and Gibson singled home two. Baldschun gave up three straight hits, including Groat's second two-run single, before Ryne Duren could get the side out.

Gunning Season For Deer Is Extended To Nine Days

Bow Hunters Given Extra Month; Other Seasons Lengthened

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Longer seasons for the hunting of deer, quail, racoon and oppossum have been approved by the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission.

Meeting Saturday, the agency set a nine-day firearm season for buck deer, compared with the usual seven-day season. The move was to reduce Maryland's exploding deer population, the commission said.

Under the new regulations, hunters will be able to take a deer from Dec. 5-14.

Given Extra Month

Bow and arrow hunters were not left out, either. The 1963 deer season will permit them to hunt an extra month—from Sept. 15 to Dec. 24, except for the firearms season.

The quail season in Maryland, which ended Jan. 10 this year, will be extended to Jan. 31 next year. The starting date—Nov. 15—reremains the same, as required by law.

Under the new regulations, the seasons on racoon and opossum which ran from Sept. 15 through Jan. 31 this past year will open Sept. 10 and run through March 1.

Allegany County was added to Garrett County for trapping beaver. The season runs from Jan. 16 through Feb. 28.

All other hunting regulations from the 1962-63 season remain in effect for the 1963-64 season.

They include:

Squirrel—Oct. 5-Oct. 31, daily bag limit 6 and possession limit 12, except for red or piney squirrels on which there is no limit.

Turkey Dates Set

Turkey—Oct. 5 through Nov. 30 in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Somerset, and Worcester counties only. Limit one per season.

Rabbit or Hare—Nov. 15 through Jan. 5, limit 4 per year or 8 in possession (closed season in Southern Maryland and Eastern Shore counties, and in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties during deer season.)

Pheasant—Male, only, Nov. 15, through Jan. 5, limits 2 per day or 4 in possession.

Ruffed Grouse—Nov. 15 through Jan. 5, limits 2 per day or 4 in possession.

Otter, Muskrat, Mink—set by statute as Jan. 1 through March 15, except for Western and Central Maryland where it is Nov. 15 through Feb. 15 in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Carroll, Howard, Montgomery and Frederick counties. There is no daily bag or possession limit.

Collect 16 Hits, Maloney Is Victor

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds unleashed a blistering 16-hit attack behind Jim Maloney's spotty pitching and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday, 8-3.

A crowd of 18,070 at Forbes Field and a national television audience watched as the Reds beat the Pirates for the first time since opening day after absorbing three straight losses.

Cincinnati scored all of its runs in the first four innings, battering starter Al McBean, 1-1, and Harvey Haddix for 14 of the hits.

Leo Cardenas drove in two runs with a single in the first and a booming triple to center in the third. Vada Pinson also batted in a pair with a sizzling triple in the third and a fourth inning sacrifice fly.

Yankees Edge Senators, 7-6

Jim Bouton Gets Victory In Relief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jim Bouton retired the last nine hitters in succession and was the winner in relief as the New York Yankees defeated the Washington Senators, 7-6, Sunday to take the odd game of the series.

Bouton came on in the second in relief of Ralph Terry, who gave up five hits and four runs, three of them earned, in 1 2-3 innings. The Senators touched Bouton for eight hits, but not a man reached base after Chuck Hinton's leadoff double in the seventh.

The Yankees broke a 5-5 tie with two runs in the seventh off Jim Bronstad, an ex-Yankee and the loser in relief of Claude Osteen.

Aguirre Beats Boston Sox, 5-2, For 3d Victory

Norm Cash Belts Three-Run Homer

BOSTON (AP) — Left-hander Hank Aguirre authored his third straight complete winning performance and Norm Cash smacked a three-run homer as Detroit halted a three-game losing streak with a 5-2 victory over Boston Sunday.

Aguirre, now 3-0 with a 1.4 earned run average, gave up eight hits and fanned seven, running his season's strikeout total to 20.

The two Red Sox runs came in the seventh inning when Bob Tillman hit his second home run of the season following a single by Ed Bressoud.

The Tigers, who had lost three in a row to Boston in the series, collected only six hits off starter Bill Monbouquette and two relievers. But an error by third baseman Frank Malzone of Boston helped set the stage for Cash's second home run of the campaign.

Rocky Colavito had singled Al Kaline to third base in the fourth after Kaline reached first on Malzone's bobble.

Cash hit a 3-and-2 pitch from Monbouquette, driving the ball some 10 rows into the right field bleachers. The hit carried about 420 feet.

Detroit's other two runs came home on sacrifice flies in the sixth inning. Kaline's single and walks to Colavito and Cash loaded the bases, Dick McAuliffe and Gus Triandos hitting sacrifice flies to center and right field.

Demo Convention At Baltimore Is Being Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Comptroller Louis Goldstein of Maryland urged Washington businessmen and hotel operators Friday to support Baltimore's bid for the 1964 Democratic national convention.

Goldstein spoke to representatives of the Metropolitan Washington Board of Trade, the Convention and Visitors Bureau and the Hotel Association at a luncheon at the Gramercy Inn.

Baltimore wants the convention for its new civic center, but the city would have to count on Washington for hotel rooms for part of the convention crwd.

Baltimore has presented its case to the Democratic national convention, but the committee reportedly favors Miami or Chicago as the site for next year's convention.

A convention bureau spokesman said Washington businessmen would welcome the selection of Baltimore, but the Board of Trade wants to look a little longer at the $600,000 guarantee involved before taking a position.

Goldstein made no specific proposal on how much of the money Washington would be expected to raise.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Tips For Hikers

A few bits of advice, in case you're planning a similar jaunt:

1. Go as soon as possible, while the early flowers are still in bloom and before the trees are in full leaf. You'll see more.

2. Wear sturdy and skid-proof shoes, but not new ones. Shale and pebbles are the only hindrances to an easy, level walk.

3. Take a flashlight for the tunnel. It's a perfectly safe trip, but rather eerie without a light.

4. Get a willing botanist or wildflower hobbyist to go with you if you can find a spare one.

5. Don't pick the wildflowers. The National Parks Service won't like it, and neither will the hikers who follow you.

6. Unless you know as much about them as Ricky Workman does, don't pick up snakes.

The gentleness of most sled dogs surprises many amateur drivers.

Forest Fires In Weekend Plague Area

Cash Valley Road Blaze Controlled By Volunteers

Forest fires continued to plague West Virginia, Allegany and Garrett counties yesterday.

Fires were burning out of control at Paw Paw, Sleepy Creek, in Morgan County, at Savage River Dam on the 17 mile grade of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill dump at Piedmont.

And, near Cumberland, a fire burned out of control for several hours on Cash Valley Road, charring over five acres before being brought under control.

High Winds Hinder

High winds added to the burden of volunteer firemen, volunteer fire fighters and foresters. In some cases, fires were blamed on careless smokers and indiscriminate burning of debris and sparks from trains.

Sixteen pieces of equipment answered the Cash Valley alarm with approximately 250 men fighting the blaze including a contingent of Army Reserves from Lonaconing who were on a drill and offered their services.

The fire started about 2:15 p.m. and was under control about 6 p.m. No homes in the area were in any immediate danger from the fire.

Volunteer firemen and foresters were patroling the area last night in case fire broke out again.

Paw Paw Fire

A fire on the outskirts of Paw Paw, which had burned more than 12 hours Saturday before being brought under control, resumed again yesterday afternoon. District foresters at Romney said high winds had stirred the blaze but had shifted the fire away from the town. The fire Saturday had threatened homes before some 400 volunteers brought the fire under control.

Another fire at Sleepy Creek, also in Morgan County, burned out of control but foresters said the winds had subsided and they were hopeful of controlling the blaze before midnight.

About 9 p.m. yesterday fire broke out at the Piedmont dump of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and was reported still out of control late last evening.

Other fires in West Virginia at Antioch, Waxler Road and Magnolia were reported still burning but under control.

A forest fire which started on the railroad tracks above the Savage River Dam on 17-mile grade of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yesterday about 1 p.m. burned over 300 acres before being brought under control about 10 o'clock last night. Bloomington volunteer firemen were called out to protect the residence of Robert Eaton, above the control building of the dam.

Forest wardens, railroad employes and two truck loads of youths from the forestry camps fought the blaze which burned the area over top of Backbone Mountain to near State Route 135.

State Police were called out to direct traffic because of the thick smoke which settled over the highway.

District Forester W. A. C. Irwin reported a fire one mile east of Tunnel Hill believed to have started from sparks from a train burned over 30 acres before being controlled Saturday night. Two fires, one at Marsh Mountain and the other at Rock Lodge were blamed on burning of debris.

Fires still smouldering are being patroled by foresters and volunteers in Paw Paw, Sleepy Creek and Bloomington.

Mrs. Bennett's Second Trial Starts Today

Just a year and two days after her first trial ended, Mrs. Garnette May Bennett, 40, formerly of 300 Willowbrook Road, will be back in Allegany County Circuit Court at 9:15 a.m. today for the start of her second trial on a charge of murdering her husband, Moses Bennett, who was 43 at the time of his death January 31, 1962.

Mrs. Bennett's three-day trial last year ended on Good Friday, then April 20, and the jury found her guilty of first degree murder but without capital punishment. Although she was not actually sentenced until May 2, 1962, the verdict restricted the sentence of the full bench to life imprisonment.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris and Associate Judges W. Earle Cobey and D. K. McLaughlin, the latter of Washington County, presided at the trial. Another full bench will be on hand today but this time will be Simon F. Hamill and Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill of Garrett County will replace Judge McLaughlin this time.

Mrs. Bennett has been granted a second trial as a result of a ruling of the Maryland Court of Appeals, which said that the three judges were in error in not advising the jury on all areas of self-defense.

The prosecution will be handled again by State's Attorney James S. Getty and his deputy Donald W. Mason. Defense attorneys this time will be Simon F. Reilly and John C. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan participated in the first trial but not Mr. Reilly.

Red Cross Group Tours Established Operations

A tour of established canteen operations and shelters which would be used in the event of disaster was conducted Friday by members of the Red Cross disaster committee of Allegany County Chapter.

Members of the group visited the National Guard Armory where they were made acquainted with facilities which have been authorized for use of Red Cross if a disaster occurs. Included would be portable kitchens which could serve coffee and soup to 200 persons. These would be made available to Red Cross with a driver and two men to operate the kitchens.

Chief Warrant officer Joseph E. Jolley, administrative assistant of the National Guard Armory, and CWO Arnett J. Arrington, chairman and assistant chairmen respectively of shelter locations for Red Cross, conducted the tour.

Other canteen stations visited were at St. John's Lutheran Church, Arch Street, and St. Mary's Catholic Church, Oldtown Road. Canteen facilities not on the tour are at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Washington Street; Kingsley Methodist Church, Williams Street, and First Baptist Church, Bedford Street.

The committee also visited three shelter areas at First Presbyterian Church, Washington Street; Grace Methodist Church, Virginia Avenue, and St. Mark's United Church of Christ, Park and Harrison streets.

Other shelter areas are located at Second Baptist Church, Grand Avenue; Beth Jacob Synagogue, Columbia Street; LaVale Fire Hall and the Elks Club, South Centre Street, which would be used for administrative offices, in the event of a disaster.

The purpose of the tour was to recheck facilities previously set up as a part of disaster preparation program of Allegany County Chapter. The facilities are being reviewed prior to publication of a disaster manuel for the county which will contain operational plans and list of personnel who would be involved.

Wallace G. Ullery chairman of the chapter disaster committee; Mrs. Albert List and Mrs. William Grimm, chairman and cochairman of canteen committee, Mrs. Richard Kirsch, Mrs. Herman Koegel and Mrs. William T. Fridinger made the tour accompanied by Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of the chapter.

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission has arranged for him to appear at three schools each day. On April 29 he will be at Columbia Street School at 9:15 a. m., at Centre Street School at 10:45 a. m. and at St. Patrick's School at 1:15 p. m.

On April 30 he will visit Virginia Avenue School at 9:15 a. m., Gephart School at 10:45 a. m. and Johnson Heights School at 1:15 p. m.

The inspector has received recognition from the National Safety Council and other national safety organizations for his work with children and his safety cartoons.

For many years Inspector Mansfield's program appeared on television. He organized the "Safety Carefuliers" Club which is an organization made up of school children from throughout Maryland. Their dedication to safety is cited as proof of his ability to teach traffic safety.

Inspector Mansfield was featured in a recent article in the Saturday Evening Post, which acknowledged his help in helping to prevent death and destruction among school children.

Rubber Pacts Extended On Daily Basis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Some 50,000 rubber workers were prepared to return to work Monday while union negotiators continued contract talks with three major rubber companies.

The workers, who had given the United Rubber Workers (URW) authority to call a strike when the old contract expired at midnight Saturday, had been ready to walk off their jobs.

After the contract expiration deadline passed, several pickets were posted at the Akron, Ohio, Firestone plant. They however were withdrawn when it was announced the contract was being extended.

URW international president George Burdon told the men around the country to stay on the job after the companies—B. F. Goodrich, Firestone Tire & Rubber and Goodyear Tire & Rubber—agreed with the union to an extension of the old contract on a day-to-day basis.

At stake in the talks is the pattern for settlement with all the other major rubber producers. Negotiators at General Tire & Rubber Co., U.S. Rubber Co. and Seiberling Rubber Co. kept an eye on the proceedings.

Contracts of these three firms do not expire until later. But none of them matches the other three in size and they would almost certainly have to fall into line with the terms to which Goodrich, Firestone and Goodyear agreed.

Saturday's talks lasted into the early morning hours Sunday, broke up and then resumed Sunday afternoon. Union and company officials were silent on progress.

However, it was indicated by Firestone that several key issues remain to be resolved. Burdon talks with Firestone here. The Goodyear negotiations are being held at Cincinnati and Dayton is the site of Goodrich bargaining.

Union proposals for profit sharing, a sabbatical leave and a study of automation and wage increases were the principal issues.

Local Boy Learns That Handcuffs Are Not Toys

A local boy learned the hard way last night that the handcuffs carried by Cumberland policemen work.

Police said a 10-year-old boy from the Polk Street section came to Police Headquarters holding up his arms and asked that the handcuffs fastened to one of his arms be taken off.

He told police he found the bracelets along the B & O railroad tracks and, thinking they were toy handcuffs, placed on of them on his arm and heard it click.

Police said the handcuffs were lost by Officer George Pfeiffer, and apparently dropped from the case as he was walking his beat along the tracks.

New C&P System Seeks To Improve Public Service

A new system designed to improve customer service has been installed in the business office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, according to Richard K. Dayton, commercial manager.

Mr. Dayton said the new system, known as the Flexible Appointment Plan, is designed to assist business office employes in scheduling work to be done for customers by the installation and repair department.

A series of red, amber and green lights for each day of the week is displayed on a panel located in the business office with a control panel in the plant test center.

As the maximum amount of work that can be handled for each day is approached, a switch is operated on the control panel for the day involved and the color of the light changes on the business office panel. Additional work to be done then would be scheduled for the next day shown on the panel.

Mr. Dayton said the new system will prevent assigning more work than can be completed on a given day and customers will know definitely when a particular job or work will be started.

Mrs. Jean Robinson, who works in the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company business office here, demonstrates the new panel designed to assist employes in scheduling their daily work.

Garden Clubbers Find Canal Hike Fascinating Fun

By BERNARD E. SITTER
News Managing Editor

If you're looking for a fascinating and inexpensive way to entertain the kids on a pleasant Sunday afternoon, try a wildflower walk along the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

The kids might even learn something about the fascinating flora and fauna that abound in the area's woods. Especially if you take along a couple of biologists, as the Garden Club of Cumberland did yesterday afternoon when it took such a hike from the Paw Paw Tunnel.

Don A. Emerson and Glenn O. Workman Jr. were the specialists in charge of all sorts of information. Mr. Emerson teaches zoology and ecology at Frostburg State Teachers College, and Mr. Workman is a botany teacher there.

About two dozen Garden Clubbers, wives, husbands and children made the two or three-mile trek eastbound from the famous old tunnel, then back. Nobody kept track of the exact distance. Everybody was too busy looking at wildflowers and asking questions.

All Kinds Of Information

Both Mr. Emerson and Mr. Workman turned out to be full of answers.

Mr. Emerson, after calling the group's attention to a blooming adderstongue (also called the dogtooth violet and the trout lily) displayed a rock lizard and a red-spotted newt, both native to the canal area.

Then he gave a concise summary of the history of the canal, which once was a major route of commerce between east and west.

The hikers, most of them carrying flashlights, marched through the 3,080-foot Paw Paw Tunnel, a long but refreshing hike because of the natural "air conditioning" that relieved the outside heat, where the temperature was in the upper 80s.

Most of the hikers, being flower growers and thus already informed to some degree about wildflowers, nevertheless felt they had learned a lot from the trip.

A partial count (the unofficial checker got separated from some of the hikers) showed that about 40 different varieties of wildflowers were found.

Weeds Are Wildflowers

Some of them are plain weeds if they're in your garden or lawn. Out on the towpath they're wildflowers.

Blooming species noted included Carolina vetch, mouse-eared chickweed and veronica, all blooming in one clump; henbit, wild pansies, Dutchman breeches, smooth rock cress, spring beauty, service-tree, witch hazel, early saxifrage, white and blue hepaticas blooming a few feet apart; bloodroot, sheep sorrel, rue anemone, cinquefoil, the familiar butter-and-eggs, and violets.

The high point of the trip for many of the hikers was a field of graceful bluebells. Several types of ferns, lichens and mosses, trailing arbutus and other plants not in bloom were picked out by the sharp-eyed nature-lovers.

Some bonus information came from Mr. Workman's son Ricky, a fifth-grade pupil and amateur herpetologist who matter-of-factly picked up and stowed away a pilot black snake, then a fox snake, both of which are harmless to humans.

It was an idyllic tramp through the woods, with nothing to spoil the wilderness scenery. The only indication of a forest fire which destroyed hundreds of acres of similar beauty Saturday and last night was a pall of smoke over a distant ridge and valley. The few
